musiTECH Workshop, November 7-8, 2017
New York-New York, Las Vegas, NV

Tri-Technical Systems and Friedman, Kannenberg & Company, P.C. put on a successful workshop in Las Vegas on November 7th & 8th called musiTECH.

Representatives from both the accounting offices of Friedman and Kannenberg and Tri-Tech share their best business and accounting practices for the music industry. Every seat was filled with attendees from across the United States, Canada, and as far away as Barbados, eager to maximize their skills in working with the AIMsi retail solution and Active-e online services so as to improve their financial bottom lines and grow their businesses. Everyone from new users to seasoned vets came away with new things to implement to help their businesses. In addition, attendees were able to get an exclusive sneak peek at the upcoming AIMsi v12 upgrade. Version 12 has been completely rewritten from the ground up with the newest programming technologies and now uses SQL Server as the backend database. The venue provided the perfect blend of both a focused learning environment and fun-filled downtime.

“Tons of great info! Very helpful to keep for daily practice.” – Phil Lee, Palmer Music Co.

“I always leave with new understanding that undoubtedly helps me down the line.” – Charley Waddill, Access Percussion.
